A winter light activation on The Rose Kennedy Greenway and The Charles River Esplanade

North Meadow Hatchling

3.5 ft tall x 7 ft wide

This Hatchling is nestled in the well curated plantings of North Meadow, with a half round stage access from the boardwalk path. It is the brightest Hatchling per sq/in with over 6,000 lights animated in blue, purple and pink.

From this location: Visitors can easily see the Zakim Bridge, another result of the Big Dig project. An iconic feature in Boston's skyline, the bridge spans 1,432 feet long and has a uniquely asymmetrical, hybrid design; an homage to the city's past and future.

North End Hatchling

8.5 ft tall x 17 ft wide

The second largest Hatchling on The Greenway, this location is easily accessible from an adjacent park pathway and features a multicolored Hatchling that celebrates its adjacency to Boston's historic North End community.

From this location: Visitors can pause and reflect at the Freedom Trail marker, located on the south side of the parcel, across from Boston Public Market. The red bricks lead across the path, denoting the Freedom Trail, a visual reminder of the many layers of history that the land holds.

Rings Fountain Hatchling

9.5 ft x 17 ft wide

The largest Hatchling in this cross-park installation, featuring a circular wood stage for performances both spontaneous and planned. The stage extends out into a circle emphasizing the half sphere shape of the Hatchling and features a chevron pattern to echo the wood paneling of the Hatch Memorial Shell.

From this location: Though the iconic fountains are off for the winter, visitors can still take a look at the intricate pavers, jigsawing in a spiral pattern. If the pavers have inspired a labyrinth walk, make sure to visit Gateway to Infinity (an Anti-monument), by Maria Molteni, located next to The Greenway carousel. The Greenway carousel is open the full week of Thanksgiving and Christmas, (except for the holidays) and every Friday through Sunday from 11-6 until January 1st.

High Street Hatchling

7 ft tall x 14 ft wide

Tucked inside a ring of trees and less visible from the street, experience this Hatchling in this uniquely forested setting. Large enough to immerse yourself in the sparkling lights, this Hatchling is perfect for a quieter or more contemplative experience.

From this location: The protection and care of urban wildlife is a hallmark of the Rose Kennedy Greenway Conservancy's mission. This location is informally known to many as The Greenway's arboretum due to the unique mix of tree species. Spend some time enjoying nature's resources, both during the day and at night. While visiting, try to listen for and see a bird in flight.

Congress Street Hatchling

5.5 ft tall x 11 ft wide

Located along a curving path in the darkest part of the park, this Hatchling will appear to be particularly bright and colorful because there are no street lights in this parcel, featuring over 12,000 lights in purple, pink and green hues.

From this location: Take a look around at this urban landscape and notice the lack of electrical infrastructure. Typically quieter and less illuminated than other Greenway parcels, this location presented a unique opportunity to create light in the darkness. The Hatchlings are solar powered and have been strategically placed to take advantage of solar exposure, including at this location which receives plentiful sunlight throughout the day.

Dewey Square Hatchling

4.3 ft tall x 8.6 ft wide

This Hatchling features an animated rainbow of colors intended to compliment the iconic mural Breathe Life Together, and nod to a colorful projection activation of the mural that took place this past Spring. The activation was realized through a collaboration between the muralist ProBlak, design studio Studio HHH, and video artist Pamela Hersch.

From this location: This location is visible from South Station, an ideal starting place for a Hatchlings tour with a quick walk to visit the smallest Hatchling at Chin Park in Chinatown, then travel north on The Greenway to visit the rest of the Hatchlings.

Chin Park Hatchling

2.5 ft tall x 5 ft wide

Visit the smallest Hatchling on The Greenway tucked atop a tiny hill at the gateway to Chin Park, visible for both vehicular and pedestrian visitors. This Hatchling draws color inspiration from the Chinatown Park Gate, featuring vivid red and a mix of warm tones.

From this location: The Rose Kennedy Greenway Conservancy constantly strives to find ways to maximize user experience in both small and large ways, visitors can view the many large lighting changes from the Serpentine Path to Mary Soo Hoo Park.
